

A DOCTOR PRESCRIBES HIS OWN HAPPINESS

By Florence Westminster,
Health Correspondent

Without doubt a key factor in the growth of Wolstanton-based CCC has been that they are probably the only homecare products specialist in the UK who have a doctor based with them.

Clarion readers are familiar with Doctor Neil Stirling, a former NHS GP and later in life in private practice who also spent many years as Staffordshire Police Surgeon. His former wife Marguerite sadly passed away some five years ago and the fact she was a motor neurone sufferer influenced CCC's original formation of their charity. Everyone who knows Neil, with his amazing energy, enthusiasm and spirit will be delighted at the fantastic news that the beginning of 2006 saw a new future ... he and the new love of his life Susan Boore decided to marry!

Susan formerly from Lytham St Annes, lost her husband, a business executive, three years ago and met Neil after moving to Cheshire.

The marriage took place in church at Betley, Dr Stirling's former village and the happy couple are to continue living at Nantwich having honeymooned on Lanzarote.

All associated with Castle Comfort Centre are ecstatic over the news and send their heartiest congratulations. We are asked to reassure clients of CCC, all of whom receive a telephone call from 'Dr S' on their birthdays, that the helpful and vital services of this very special doctor will continue.

(Look forward to the next Clarion to learn things about Dr Stirling that few people know!)

business capitals, an exclusive dealership was set up with the Alicante-based leading contemporary developer of massage science, EUROKEYTON, to market their products in Britain. This wholly Spanish owned company has for 20 years pioneered the worldwide development of chairs that include advanced and authentic massage systems. These days they now are sold on every continent and highly respected by medical professions and institutions. This concept is far from the run of the mill 'vibrating noisy cable system' already known in the UK. In a nutshell, the system consists of soft rubber rollers and scientifically developed angled 'arms', which emulate the skill of an actual masseur – in fact, computerised high-tech and silent programmes can well surpass what the human touch is capable of.

There are many quality chairs in the range - created in leather and material, with different levels of massage system strengths – one of them even prints out a diagnostic analysis of your back condition before and after a session! The results and difference after treatment are indeed very impressive.

All high prestige products are usually owned by people of similar profile - and so far in the UK, as reported in the press – Cherie Blair one day went shopping for a unique present for her husband whose stress levels had caused him serious heart and stomach problems. Apparently, Tony now relies on his 'Keyton' daily; as Cherie has cancelled the regular visits to Downing Street of a blonde masseuse! (see Tony and Cherie on page 12) It is not just stress that can be helped with the Castle Comfort Spanish therapy chairs; on page four you'll see a list of ailments that those ancient Egyptian literally got to grips with.

These truly amazing and innovative therapy chairs can be seen and tried at CCC's Wolstanton head office but it's a good idea to phone first to book your free session – as the demand and interest is tremendous. And as usual, if you can't get out – just mention it and you'll be collected from home and returned. A free trial and demonstration can also be arranged without obligation in your own home and trust-based interest free payment schemes (without any extra charge whatsoever) are available.
